The main objective of IGRSM 2022 is to bring together local and international experts in geospatial technologies, both from the government and private sectors to disseminate knowledge, to share their expertise and experiences in present and future applications and development of remote sensing, geographical information systems (GIS) and global navigation satellite systems (GNSS). As the world is currently facing the COVID-19 pandemic, the significance of geospatial technologies becomes more pronounced. This technology is expected to be one of the most prominent technologies in recovering economy, environment, and societies livelihood around the globe. The ability of users to determine their position and transmit the coordinates to other devices has been of significant use in location-based services, advertising and social networking.
